"Mariachi Band"

7:30 pm – 9:30 pm

Mariachi is a musical expression that dates back to the at least 18th century in Western Mexico. It is a tradition that can be defined by various socio-musical elements. Mariachi instrumentation and texture, musical genres and subgenres, performance methods and styles, singing styles and forms, dance styles, performative space, performance clothing, and the word "mariachi".

Each element has its own history, originated at varying moments in time and in different regions of the Western Mexican countryside, and some, if not all, had to converge in order for the mariachi tradition to become what it is.

"Cocoson"

7:30pm–9:30pm

Salsa & Caribbean Roots

Cocoson is a unique small band that sounds like a big salsa orchestra. With the voice unique of Eleazar Ocaña.

Salsa is the product of various musical genres including the Cuban son montuno, guaracha, cha cha chá, mambo, and to a certain extent bolero, and the Puerto Rican bomba and plena. Salsa also occasionally incorporates elements of rock, R&B, and funk. All of these non-Cuban elements are grafted onto the basic Cuban son montuno template when performed within the context of salsa.

"Mogo Mogo"

7:30pm–9:30pm

Mexican Folk Son Jarocho

Son Jarocho is a regional folk music style of Mexican Son from Veracruz, a Mexican state along the Gulf of Mexico. It evolved over the last two and a half centuries along the coastal portions of southern Tamaulipas state and Veracruz state, hence the term "Jarocho", a colloquial term for people or things from the port city of Veracruz. It represents a fusion of indigenous (primarily Huastecan), Spanish, and African musical elements, reflecting the population which evolved in the region from Spanish colonial times. Lyrics include humorous verses and subjects such as love, nature, sailors, and cattle breeding that still reflect life in colonial and 19th century Mexico.
